

Inflation Data

Tom's Traumhaus

20.12.2012

The dataset we use stems from the Bank of England Research datasets.

I quote:

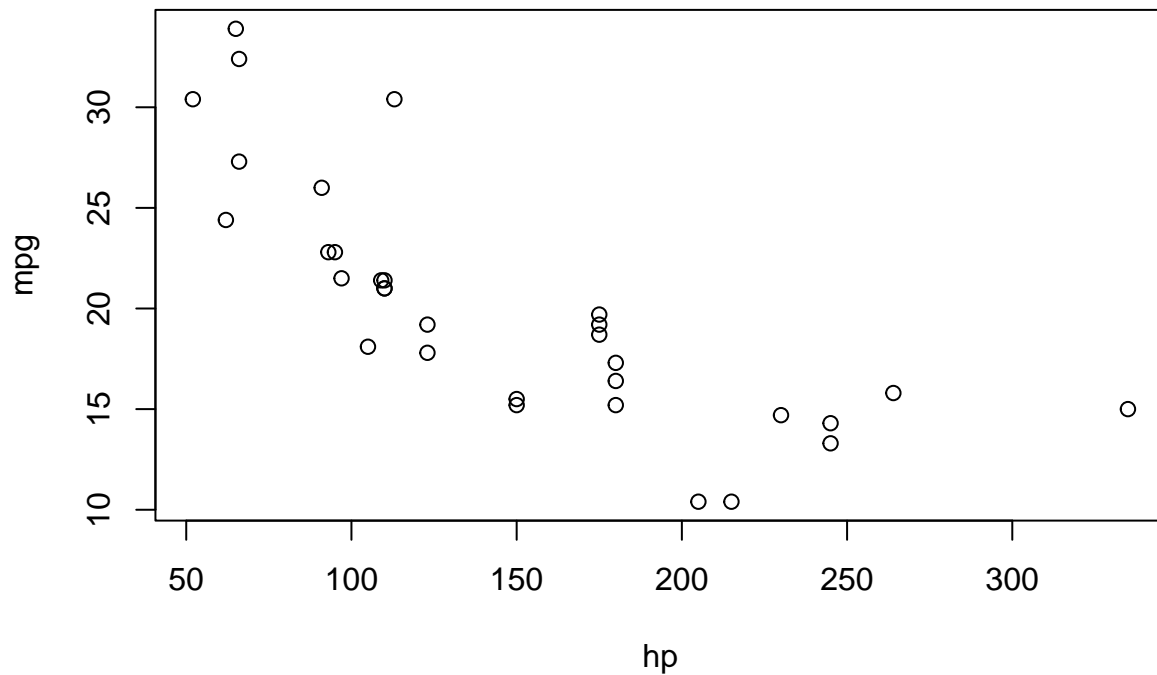

This dataset contains the individual responses to our Inflation Attitudes Survey, a quarterly survey of people's feelings about inflation and other economic variables like the interest rate.

1. Item 1

- I-Team 4

For this dataset the Bank of England asked 240.133 people for their opinion on the perceived and expected inflation. The survey has run quarterly since 2001.

A code chunk is for longer code/output:

Inline code is for single numbers/short text:

We have 32 cars.

